Prologue

The King and Queen have been blessed with the birth of a baby princess. All the kingdom are invited to the Christening. The fairies bestow magical gifts upon the new princess. The Fairy of the Crystal Fountain bestows Truth and Sincerity. The Fairy of the Enchanted Forest gives her Beauty. The Woodland Glade Fairy gives the princess Generosity, Fertility and good Fortune. The Songbird Fairy gives her the gift of Song. The Fairy of the Briar Rose gives her Strength, Valour, Courage, and Power. And the Lilac Fairy gives her Wisdom. Unfortunately, one fairy was inadvertently left of the guest list- Carabosse (AKA Maleficent in the Disney version of the story). Carabosse arrives and announces that she too has a gift for the baby. But to everyone's horror, instead of blessing the baby, she curses her that she will prick her finger and die on her 16th birthday. The Lilac Fairy intervenes. She cannot undo the curse, but she alters it so that the princess will only fall into an enchanted sleep from which she will be awakened a hundred years later by the kiss of a prince.

Act 1

Years pass and it is Princess Aurora's birthday. The villagers gather and dance decorating the palace with bowers of flowers. The guests arrive. Amid the celebrations, a strange old woman (Carabosse in disguise) arrives and gives Aurora a curious object. Aurora has never seen one before. It is a spindle, which has been banned from the kingdom. Not knowing what it is, she dances with it and unwittingly pricks her finger. At first, she seems alright and continues to dance, but it is apparent that she is feeling unwell. Suddenly she drops to the floor lifeless. The Lilac Fairy appears and puts the entire palace to sleep.

Act 2

A hundred years pass, and a Prince is riding through the forest when he comes upon the fairies in the forest outside of the castle. They tell him about the enchanted princess and lead him to the castle. When he arrives, he finds it overgrown with vines and the fairies pull back the vines. He sees everyone asleep and kisses the princess, breaking the curse and waking Princess Aurora and the rest of the palace.

Act 3

The Prince and Princess are married in a royal wedding presided over by the Lilac Fairy and they live happily ever after.
