MANDATORY MASTER CLASSES with Casie “Tynee” Goshow & Guest Instructors

Casie "Tynee" Goshow is originally from Pennsylvania. She was a competitive gymnast growing up and fell in love with breakdancing shortly after. She graduated from Pennsylvania State University with a Bachelor of Science degree. She has also taught Hip Hop at Penn State. After college Casie moved to New York City to pursue her dreams. After two years of training, Casie got signed to BLOC Talent agency and immediately started booking work. She has appeared on national television for The TODAY Show dancing with featured artists such as Lil' Jon, PSY and Chris Brown. Casie has also danced on The Wendy Williams Show, the HBO series "How To Make It In America," and has been a Las Vegas finalist on the FOX TV show "So You Think You Can Dance." Additional credits include: Icona Pop, opening for Missy Elliot, Adidas TechFit Commercial, NBA, Beats Superbowl Commercial, Coca-Cola Energy Collective Series, Monsters of Hip Hop Scholarship winner and Seventeen Magazine's "Adidas Makes Tracks" contest winner. After working multiple dance jobs, she realized that her passion more so lies within teaching. Casie has since moved to Los Angles to continue her dance career, while also teach at some of LA's leading dance schools, such as The EDGE and IDA Hollywood. Casie continues to teach Hip Hop, Breakin' and Zumba Fitness® throughout the United States.
